

CLIENT BULLETIN

Details of Lidstone & Company and Murdy & McAllister Merger

June 27, 2018

Further to the public announcement that Lidstone & Company and Murdy & McAllister will join forces as of July 1, 2018 to give clients the combined benefit of two first class local government law firms, the purpose of this release is to provide further details for our clients.

Each firm's clients will continue to receive the same high quality, responsive and efficient service from their current key contact lawyers, at the same rates, email addresses and phone numbers, and will also gain access to advice and other services from lawyers from the other firm who specialize in other areas. In other words, it will be business as usual but with more depth and expertise.

Clients who have had key relationships with Murdy & McAllister will now have access to three labour and employment lawyers (Marisa Cruickshank, Andrew Carricato and Rachel Vallance), an aboriginal law practitioner (Rob Botterell), another senior litigation lawyer in addition to James Yardley (Paul Hildebrand) and several others with preferred areas of practice in local government fields including Mediator Robin Phillips.

The clients who have had key relationships with Lidstone & Company will now have access to two senior local government lawyers with 35 and 30 years of experience respectively (Chris Murdy and Michael McAllister), a lawyer with a Master's Degree in Planning and 28 years of experience litigating a wide variety of local government matters (James Yardley), a lawyer with significant experience in FOIPOP and legal research (Colleen Burke), extensive development, construction and procurement experience (Michael McAllister and James Yardley) and lawyers experienced in local government issues such as railways and regional districts (Lynda Stokes) and bylaw enforcement and general litigation (Anthony Price).

A list of all lawyers in the combination law firm (and their preferred areas of practice and contact information) can be found on the next page.

For further information contact Chris Murdy, at 604.689.5263 or by email at murdy@lidstone.ca or csm@murdymcallister.com or Don Lidstone, at 604.899.2269 or lidstone@lidstone.ca
